SPONSORSHIP PROSPECTUS

An invitation to partner with the leading forum for construction law in Romania, on the occasion of its 10th anniversary edition

THE EVENT

On 5 November 2026, the Society of Construction Law Romania (SCL Romania) will host the 10th International Conference - Perspectives of Construction Law: The Present & Future of Best Practices in Construction & Arbitration. This landmark anniversary edition celebrates a decade of shaping the discipline in Romania and connecting it to the wider international community.

Since its foundation, SCL Romania has brought together legal practitioners, engineers, architects, consultants, academics and real estate specialists who work side by side, sharing ideas and research to answer the practical challenges of the construction sector. The Society is an active member of the European Society of Construction Law (ESCL) and part of the International Society of Construction Law platform, and in 2018 it was entrusted with organising the European Annual Conference in Romania. Its annual conference has become the country's foremost forum for construction law.

This year's anniversary edition is organised in partnership with the Faculty of Law of the Bucharest University of Economic Studies (ASE) and with CIArb Europe (the Chartered Institute of Arbitrators, European Branch), bringing together academic rigour and the leading international community in arbitration and dispute resolution.

What the conference is about

The anniversary edition brings the sector's most pressing questions to the stage, with sessions dedicated to themes that define construction law today:

- FIDIC & G.D. 1/2018 contracts - administration and the practical realities of implementation
- Construction arbitration and dispute resolution, in Romania and across borders
- Claims management, delay and disruption, and the allocation of risk
- Applying the SCL UK Delay and Disruption Protocol in Romania and abroad, and the prospects of an international protocol currently under development
- Applying the new technologies in construction and dispute resolution
- Regulatory developments and the evolving Romanian and international legal framework

The purpose

The conference is built for real-time exchange of experience. It places delegates in direct dialogue with internationally renowned specialists and seasoned practitioners, turning years of accumulated expertise into working knowledge that participants can apply the very next day. Past editions have welcomed distinguished figures such as the Secretary-General of the European Society of Construction Law, the President of the Society of Construction Law UK and leading international arbitration practitioners - a standard of speaker the anniversary edition is designed to match and exceed.

THE LOCATION

The 10th edition will be held in the Le Diplomate Hall of the InterContinental Athénée Palace Bucharest - one of the most storied and prestigious addresses in the Romanian capital.

Construction of the Athénée Palace began in 1912 to the design of the French architect Théophile Bradeau, and it opened its doors in 1914 as the first major building in Bucharest built on a reinforced-concrete skeleton. For more than a century it has been a symbol of prestige and refinement, gracefully weathering two world wars and decades of political change while hosting dignitaries, statesmen and celebrated guests, and writing its name into the chronicles of the city.

Le Diplomate itself is a nationally recognised historic monument and part of the national heritage. The hall impresses through its architectural composition - walls finished with gold-leaf detailing, majestic crystal mirrors and a magnificent stained-glass ceiling - capturing the elegance of a bygone era. Hosting an event in such a setting is a statement in itself. The grandeur of the room lends every proceeding a sense of occasion and confers on partners and speakers alike the distinction of a truly exceptional event.

CONFIRMED SPEAKERS

The anniversary edition brings together a distinguished international faculty: senior practitioners, arbitrators, academics and industry leaders whose work defines construction law across Europe and beyond. Delegates will hear directly from the professionals who draft the delay and disruption protocols, argue the landmark disputes and shape the doctrine - an opportunity for genuine, first-hand exchange with authorities in the field.

The full speaker line-up is confirmed on a rolling basis and announced ahead of the conference. As with every SCL Romania edition, the programme is curated to guarantee a roster of eminent, internationally recognised experts.

The up-to-date list of confirmed speakers is available in the Confirmed Speakers section on scl-romania.org.

WHY SPONSOR

Associating your organisation with the 10th anniversary edition means aligning your brand with excellence, heritage and the leading professional community in Romanian construction law. The benefits are concrete:

- Targeted visibility. Reach a hand-picked audience of decision-makers - lawyers, engineers, arbitrators, developers, public authorities and consultants - precisely the people who commission and shape construction projects.
- Prestige by association. A milestone edition in a national-heritage venue signals that your organisation operates at the highest tier of the profession.
- Business development. Meaningful networking with international speakers and senior delegates, in a setting built for conversation rather than crowds.
- International reach. Through SCL Romania's membership of the European and International Societies of Construction Law, your support is visible well beyond Romania's borders.
- Lasting recognition. Your brand is carried across the conference's promotional materials, on-site branding and post-event communications, and into SCL Romania's specialised publications and professional network.
